

Engagement Rates Matter, But Graduation Rates Matter More

CLEVELAND, Ohio – April 18, 2019 – In recent programs that included a high-risk Medicaid member population, Evi-Base produced a 58% active engagement rate and a graduation rate of 95%. These results are historically consistent for us when working with vulnerable populations.

WHAT IS THE SIGNIFICANCE OF HIGH ENGAGEMENT AND GRADUATION RATES OF PATIENTS IN HEALTH CARE PROGRAMS?

High risk patients who complete care management programs demonstrate substantially more cost savings and better outcomes than those who engage but don't graduate. Of course, it is essential to identify high risk patients and get them to enroll in a program, but that is just the beginning of the process. In a recent analysis performed by Evolent, it was shown that savings were driven by patients who graduated from evidence-based care management programs.

Evi-Base peer health leaders and health coaches are trained to identify and coach through barriers and competing priorities that individuals face as they choose to complete our health education programs. Patient-centricity and human compassion are qualities built into Evi-Base touch points, resulting in high graduation and satisfaction rates by Evi-Base program participants. In a significant diabetes project with a health plan, the average member satisfaction rating was over 92.6%. A whopping 96% of participants completed their satisfaction surveys, 100% of respondents answered YES to wanting more educational programs like the one they just completed and 90% reported they would refer a friend or family member to the program.

For nearly a decade, Evi-Base has provided standout results for clients, associated cost savings and better outcomes through its best in class patient engagement.
